“There are a few things to love about this Victorian shiraz. First there’s the price: $15 is really not very much to pay for a wine with character and interest, especially from a producer with the pedigree of Taltarni. And then there’s the body of the wine: despite carrying a not-insignificant 14 per cent alcohol, there’s a lightness of touch here, a translucent quality to the black fruit, a spiciness and mintiness to the perfume and powdery, savoury element to the finish.”

Taltarni T Series Shiraz 2008

“Victorian Shiraz is such a compelling proposition in that it combines spice and fruit on the nose without overloading the palate with alcohol and oak. T Series is a beautifully elegant Shiraz and it is already drinking perfectly, showing ample charm and generosity.”
